CHRISTMAS. 'TWAS

AND THE DAY WAS GENERALLY THOUGH QUIETLY, OBSERVED.

Peculiar Weather for This Season-No Trees Crackling With Ice-The Usual Services in the Churches.

Christmas was quietly observed in Ellicott City. The same may be said of Howard county and all this section. The | Cooney has made a good name for himweather prevalent for several days had been unpropitious and fogs, almost resembling those of London, prevailed. It was warm and oppressive. It was just the day for pneumonia, low fevers, grip and other dread ailments. Every family in the community had directly or indirectly felt the hand of sickness, some the heavy hand of death. But it was Christmas and the day was kept. There was, too, much quiet enjoyment-perhaps, after all, the best kind. With weather cold and clear, the fields white with snow, and the roads as passable as Pimlico race track for sleighs and cutters, with prancing horses, jingling bells and gay young couples comfortable in well tucked-in buffalo robes and enjoying the crisp December air, quietude would not have been the order, but with such weather as did prevail, quiet enjoyment suited all. There were the usual services in the churches everywhere, and special mention of some does not mean that these were all.

At St. Paul's Catholic Church three Masses were celebrated in the morning as follows; High Mass at 5; Low Masses at 8 and 9.30.

A Christmas entertainment was given at the Lutheran Sunday School, Ellicot City, Monday night, consisting of music readings and recitations. The partici pants were Misses Gussie Lehman, Sophia Gerwig, Mary Devos, Annie Buetefisch, Annie Lauman, Edna Schotta, Ida Gerwig, Maggie Gerwig, Mollie Krah, Mildred Bretherton, Annie Rodey Blanche Jennerette, Mary Evans. Lizzio Rodev and Messrs, John H. Kraft, Wm E. Kraft, Christian C. Kraft, Philip Lauman, Louis E. Kraft, Charles Buetefisch, Henry Kline. Christian Buetefisch, Frank Dorsch, Martin Rodey. Frederick Rex and others. Music was furn ished by the choir, and addresses made by the pastor and superintendent At Emory M. E. Church Christmas night the cantata of "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe" was given by the young folks. Miss Lizzie II. Isaac was presented with a handsome purse in neat speech by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Marsh Mrs. Charles T. Makinson also received a handsome present from her class. The attendance was large. The children of St. Peter's Pro testant Episcopal Church were given their Christmas treat Tuesday night at the parish house and rendered a musical program.

The Presbyterian Sunday School had its usual Christmas celebration Wednesday night. It was largely attended and the youngsters had a huge time. The Jonestown Sunday School Christmas Saturday evening. There was a mammoth tree, with good things, books and presents galore. Superinter dent William Hanson, who deserves great credit for his labors in the school made an address.

A BULLET THROUGH HIS BRAIN. The Dead Body of John C. Dorsey Found in a Louisville Hotel. A press dispatch from Louisville, Ky. says John C. Dorsey a member of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company's corps of engineers, was found dead in bed at the Waverly Hotel, Louisville, Sunday morning. He was lying in bed, his face cold and rigid in death, and clasped in his right hand was a Colt's revolver. The contents of the Thursday. pistol had been emptied into his right temple, and a clotted mass of blood and broken fragments of bone were smeared about the awful wound. The body was in perfect position on the bed. There was nothing disturbed or misplaced in the room, and he had evidently entered a short time before the terrible happening. The door was locked. Mr. Do:sey was a native of Howard County and a son of Mr. John T. B Dorsey, whose name was changed t D'Arcy, and who now resides in Westminster. The young man was about 25 years of age. His mother and sisters live in Alexandria, Virginia. No cause for his terrible taking off is assigned. His having been in charge of very important work would indicate the esteem and confidence be commanded.

C. B. L. Election of Officers.

St. Paul's Council, No. 205, C. B. L. on Sunday December 27, elected the following officers for the easting year: Gerhard Butke, president; John J Mahon, vice president; William E Welsh, chancellor; Matthew Powers, secretary; B. H. Lyceum and the Academy. The notable event of the coming week will be the production of W. H.Gillette's latest and best corredy—certainly one of the most successful, Mr. Wilkinson's Widows develops a new complication in the line of comedy farce. Though adapted from the French, it maintains skillfully the many surprises and comolications not unlike the French origind in its scheme, but localized by Mr. Gillette. Mr. Wilkinson does not appear in the play, but it is shown that when he was alive he was a lively character. He lived in London and in Edinburg, where he had business in the tained two domestic establishments. Mr Gillette shows that he was married to two charming young women, one of whom during Wilkin-on's absence carried on a series of flirtations with several admirers. On Wilkinson's leath, however, both the young women married. One of them is known as Mrs. Herrin, the other as Mrs. Dickerson. The latter was the lively Mrs. Wilkinson during his lifetime. Each supposed herself to be the undisputed wife of the bigamist. It would be difficult to describe the many complications and coincidents developed by the mixing up of the two widows, the jealousy, agony and suspicion of their husbands, their households and their friends but it was evident from the laughter and uproar of he audience that Gillette's latest comedy ment has been defeated. The tax-payers of the State of Maryland have decided against exemptions of any class of property, and as the Bill of Rights and Constitution of our State now stand, no exfifteenth article of our Bill of Rights, thirty-sixth article says that "no person shall be compelled to frequent, pay or contribute for any church, any religion or any ministry," evidently meaning to entirely separate Church and State, leav ing all to worship and pay as their con.

science and means dictate. "Now in the face of this plain lan guage and meaning of our Bill of Rights and State Constitution, we know millions of property has been exempted by our legislative bodies, in defiance of this constitutional prohibition, and taxpayers are made to pay thousands of dollars in consequence, to support these very institutions, which is an infringement and violation of the rights of our people. The question now is are the people of our State willing to continue to be ridden over by their representatives? There are thousands of people in the city and State who have worked homes, and should these be compelled by our legislators to support in any measure, the costly church edifices, and other institutions in which they have no interest? And will our next legislature, in accordance with the demands of our tax payers, as recently expressed at the polls, stop those illegal, unjust and unconstitutional exemptions? And shall large sums of our tax-payers' money continue to be disbursed to the various in stitutions throughout the State, with which the State has nothing to do?

Our people should call a balt on this question and demand that our legislative bodies should cease to appropriate tax-payers' money for any purpose, except for the legitimate expenses of the State. Every freeman, every tax-payer, the owner of every humble home should e aroused to this fraud which is being practised, and protest against it. "Tois injustice to tax-payers ought to be apparent to every thinking man. Suppose an agent should collect money for his principal, and go to work to distribute it around amongst his friends to get favors politically or otherwise. Such an agent would be landed in the penitentiary by his principal. Let our legislators be warned to stop the any purpose except that required for the expenses of the State. It is a misrepresentation to call the defeat of "uniformity of taxation " Tax all and exempt none or exempt all and of life. tax none, would be uniform taxation. No uniformity in taxing some on their actual worth, and others on perhaps no one quarter their worth, which the proposed amendment allowed.

I propose we now have an amend ment embodying the principle "that hereafter no legislature shall have the power to exempt any class of property except that owned and controlled f the State, county or municipal governments." This would be uniform and no liable to be misinterpreted or to any contention in the future, beside just to all classes of our people. E. LIVEZEY.

Quickly gone and we have bid adieu
To the passing year of ninety-one.
With hurried tread greet ninety-two,
How is it friend? Is your work all done?

Your pilgrimage through the year just fled— Can you say good-bye and then forget? Is there not some snot where your heart has bled Some tears that mingled with forced regret?

Do you not some time feel sore at heart And almost wish the journey'd end? Then taking up freshcourage start And wish that some one, rest would s

As the dial moves around the face of Old Father Time, we all realize the fact that life is not void of realities and that those who improve the golden moments of the present are those whose memory future monuments will perpetuate We hope you spent a happy Christmas, one that you will be proud to remember and around which tender recollections will cling We extend our thanks for your liberal support in the past and assure you our constant aim in the future will be to serve you faithfully THE ENTERPRISE NO. 1.

We have still on hand a lot of Toys and Fancy Goods which we had no room te open up until late. These handsome presents are the very cream of our stock and as we do not carry anything over, the prices will be about one-half while the articles will be all yours We have gathered up the odds and ends of broken lots from 15 to 75 cents and placed them on our five cent counter. When we say a 75 cent article goes for 5 cents it goes. These are worth as much today as a week ago but they are to be sold and 5 cents will sell them THE ENTERPRISE NO. 1.

What might seem impossible to others is possible with us The possibilities that re are enabled to compass is one of the reasons why we do the business To the just all things are just, so also to the honest all things are honest; the policy we pursue in business has honesty for its head lines (make a note of this) The question is often asked us why we do so much business while others do so little? The answer to this question at first sight would seem a little embarassing, but upon second thought, by contrasting our methods of doing business with

Because Catarrh affects your head, it is not therefore a local disease. It it did not exist in your blood, it could not manifest itself in your nose. The blood now in your brain is before you finish reading this article, back in your heart again, and soon distributed to your liver, stomach, kidneys, and so on. Whatever impurities the blood does not carry away, cause what we call diseases. Therefore, when you have a snuff or other inhalant can at most give only tomporary relief. The only way to effect a cure is to attack the disease in the blood, by taking a constitutional remedy like Hood's Saraaparilla, which eliminates all impurities and thus permanently cures Catarrh. The success of
